LAST night after the races and after the rain storm a crowd of men in front of Skelton's store were examining the $500 pin won in the handicap race by Mr. Collier.

It was passed around and after a time inquiry as to its whereabouts developed the fact that it had disappeared. Some one had stolen it.

The crowd were hastened into the store, the door locked and Mr. Knight sent for. On his arrival a thorough search of each and every person in the building was made, but the pin was not found. It has not been found yet.

This afternoon Mr. Skelton reports that a valuable pair of opera glasses, one of the prizes, is also missing and a careful search is being made to see if other property has not been taken from the store. It is very evident that some sneak thief got in his work yesterday quite successfully.

Especially was Skelton's a good place to ply his nefarious profession, for that was wheelman's street headquarters and there was a big jam of people there all day. And some of the goods are so situated that a thief could help himself quite easily.

The case against Brig Madsen and Levi Carpenter, accused of unlawful taking trout from Utah lake, was tried by a jury before Commissioner Dudley this forenoon. The defense admitted having had on August 20th about twenty pounds of trout in their possession, and that they took them out of Utah lake with a seine. They proved, however, that the seine they used is licensed and one and that they made their haul strictly in accordance with law and in the presence of Frank Newell, deputy fish and game commissioner for Utah county. They proved further that in making each haul trout day (they made two) there were some six hundred pounds of trout came into the seine with the other fish. By the time that the trout were gotten out some dozen or fifteen had unavoidably gotten their heads into the meshes of the seine and were killed and completely dead. These are the fish they had in their possession and for having which they were arrested. The commissioner at every haul when this occurred has consented that the seiners take these dead trout, deeming it better for them to take the fish than to throw the speckled beauties into the water only to rot. The prosecution held persistently that the law prohibits the taking of trout out of the waters dead or alive in any way, except with a hook and line, and that persons who take them as these men had done, had violated the law. The jury held, however, that there had been no intent to violate the law proven and no harm done and so acquitted the boys.

Good Reason for Faith

Cured of Scrofula by Hood's

Scrofula permeates humanity. It is thoroughly infused into the blood. Scarcely a man is free from it in one form or another. Hood's Sarsaparilla cures scrofula promptly, surely, permanently. Thousands of people say so. For instance, read this:

"I am justified in thinking Hood's Sarsaparilla a splendid medicine by own experience with it. I was a great sufferer from scrofula, having dreadful sores in my ears and on my head, sometimes like large boils, discharging all the time. My husband insisted that I take Hood's Sarsaparilla. Of the first bottle

My Appetite Improved, and I felt somewhat better. So I bought another bottle, and by the time it was half gone the scrofula had entirely disappeared. I am
